

The Contemporary Journal of African Studies (CJAS) began its life as the Research Review in 1969, and was re-branded as the CJAS in 2012. CJAS is a peer-reviewed scholarly journal that publishes scholarly articles that set forth the findings of new research in any branch of African Studies, or papers that discuss and re-evaluate earlier research by others, or a combination of these approaches. CJAS is published twice a year and occasionally publishes supplemental special issues. In addition to full-length articles, the Editorial Committee also welcomes short reports on research in progress, brief research notes and book or film reviews.
